About Jason Moon

Jason Moon, is a versatile and dynamic performer who is both a seasoned troubadour and a dedicated advocate for our veterans. In his quarter-century touring the country, Jason Moon has entertained and inspired music lovers of all ages, in thousands of shows on hundreds of stages — from major music festivals to national conferences to intimate house concerts. Moon's songwriting and humorous storytelling ability is reminiscent of artists like John Prine, Greg Brown and Jason Isbell.

Additionally, Jason Moon is renown for the ongoing work he does with Warrior Songs, the non-profit he founded that helps military veterans find healing through music and the creative arts. The influence of this profound work is apparent in Moon's own deeply empathetic songwriting style which draws the listener into an embodied musical journey. Tailoring his performance to meet the unique requirements of each venue as he entertains and inspires both young and old, Jason Moon always makes it a unique, night-to-remember experience.

Moon has received numerous awards as a songwriter and a music producer including 2016 WAMI Songwriter of the Year and 2019 WAMI Album of the Year. Jason's work with veterans has been featured on CNN, Fox News, People Magazine, Associated Press, Public Radio International, National Public Radio, American Songwriter Magazine, Fuze News and more.
